

World's Largest Cucumber Being Challenged by Small Town Gardener

Assuming this CEN photo is for real (here's its Error Level Analysis), this is the world's largest cucumber. Per the ANI wire report, it's 5 feet, 7 inches long and was grown by a Chinese farmer named Akele Hi. "Akele says he did nothing but water the plant and put the odd shovelful of horse dung on it." This smashes the record of the former world's largest cucumber, which was a mere 46.5 inches long. (3'10.5").

A local gardener in Grants Pass Oregon, finished third in the local county fair for his incredible cucumber. Many believe either the judge made a mistake Orr there may have been foul play at work. The gardener not blaming anybody Orr letting the decision destroy his love and passion for gardening has decided he is going after the record for largest cucumber. He is going to use this heart breaking experience as motivation.

